

OPEN TRAINING in LEAN SIX SIGMA

LEARN SBTI'S WORLD-CLASS PROCESS IMPROVEMENT TECHNOLOGY AND TOOLBOX

NETWORK AND SHARE EXPERIENCES WITH OTHER STUDENTS DURING TRAINING

Open Course Green Belt / Black Belt. Next wave starts in October 2008

SBTI Europe offers an open world class Lean Six Sigma training. It is an integrated 2+2 Green Belt and Black Belt training. Both categories participate together the first 2 weeks. Those who want to reach Black Belt level then continue 2 more weeks. This is a big advantage if you want to train a limited number of both Green Belts and Black Belts since they get the same skills and get to know each other. Apart from acquiring the Lean Six Sigma method you will also be able to build a professional network of your own consisting of colleges from other successful companies that have implemented Lean Six Sigma. As a participant you will work in an environment that encourages us to learn from everyone's experiences.

Both larger and smaller companies within most industries have produced measurable improvements with the Lean Six Sigma method. We will during the training share our experiences through different Case Studies. We will practically demonstrate how it was done, how long it took, which tools were used and the results achieved.

For you to get out as much as possible from this training we also offer support to find the right project for you and your company. We would like to emphasise the great advantage to bring a project into the training. With the right project, the training costs are expected to pay off directly after you have completed your first project!

The course is designed to satisfy the demands from each individual participant, regardless of earlier experience. Some possibility for Green Belts to register for the supplementary Black Belt weeks will be at hand during the training. The maximum number of participants is set to 12 – this enables us to give individual project support which is an important part of the training. The course includes both theory and pedagogical exercises in order for you to master the tool box. Detailed examples of earlier projects and project reports are a vital part in the training. The training is led by highly qualified SBTI instructors with broad industrial experience.
